Non- union extra in film and television

“Laugh Along/Laufwitme Comedy Television” where he wrote for and worked with funny girl “Shondrella Avery”. Laufwitme was later taken into development by

20th Century Fox’s John Davis

- 1st Speaking Role: DreamWorks “Paulie”
- Principal on Malcolm and Eddie (Chef)
- Principal in (Foster Farms) Regional Commercial
- Principal in (Block Buster) National Commercial

EXTRA’S CASTING DIRECTOR

- “Stewart Little”
- Lost and Found
- Fight Club

William Baker was a principal in a regional “Foster Farms” commercial, a national “Block Buster” commercial, and he had an opportunity to shadow Stephen Spielberg on Jurassic Park, Joel Schumacher on Batman & Robin, David Lynch, and Antoine Fuqua.

After completing several film and television scripts of his own, and creating reality shows, William raised $1.5MM and started his own production company “King Of The Capital Productions, Inc. and his own production/distribution company Exorcism The Movie, LLC.” and shot his first 35mm full length feature film “Exorcism”.

William wore many hats as the writer/director/producer/casting director. Exorcism was one of the 254 films that qualified for the 2004 Academy Awards however it was mistakenly left off of the voting ballot. William is now a member of SAG-AFTRA/DGA/WGA. William has since created over 56 reality/television shows and numerous feature films for future production. If you know Hollywood, and potential of what film and television can earn, you will agree that William A. Baker owns a multi-billion dollar library of film and television projects.
